

SEARCH

ENHANCED BY Google

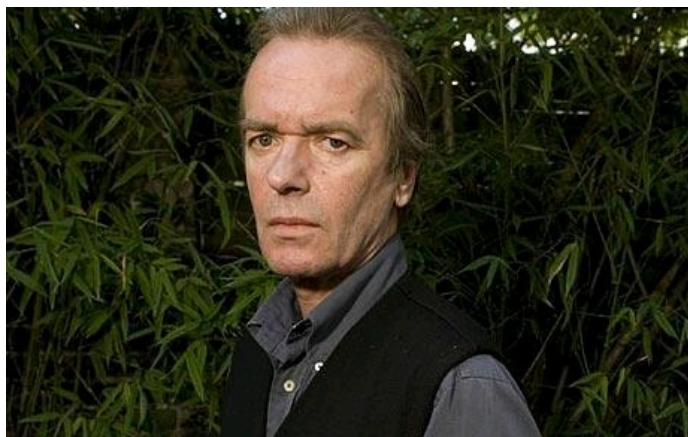

- Home
  - News
  - Sport
  - Finance
  - Lifestyle
  - Comment
  - Travel
  - Culture
  - Technology
  - Fashion
  - Motoring
  - Jobs
  - Dating
  - Offers
- UK
  - World
  - Politics
  - Celebrities
  - Obituaries
  - Weird
  - Earth
  - Science
  - Health News
  - Education
  - Topics
  - News Blogs
  - News Video
- Royal Family
  - Religion
  - Road and Rail
  - Defence
  - Scotland
  - Northern Ireland

HOME » NEWS » UK NEWS

Martin Amis calls for euthanasia booths to deal with 'silver tsunami'

Martin Amis, the novelist, has compared Britain's fast-growing population of elderly people to "an invasion of terrible immigrants", as he called for 'death booths' to be placed on street corners so they can kill themselves.

By Stephen Adams, Arts Correspondent
Published: 12:11PM GMT 24 Jan 2010

Martin Amis: 'The denial of death is a great curse' Photo: RICHARD SAKER

Amis, who is 60, predicted that "civil war" would break out between young and old within 10 or 15 years because of the pressures of supporting what he described as a "silver tsunami".

Britain's population is rapidly ageing.

Related Articles

- Amis essay 'reads like work of BNP thug'
- Martin Amis: sexual revolution killed my sister
- UK population rising at fastest rate for a century
- Carbon Trust rebrands support for green entrepreneurs
- Powwow now powers into web conferencing with ?freemium? acquisition
- Javier Hernandez will be Manchester United's 'wild card', says John O'Shea

Between 1983 to 2008 the proportion of people aged 65 or over grew by 1.5 million to 9.8 million, up from 15 to 16 per cent.

That trend will accelerate in the coming decades.

By 2033, 23 per cent of the population will be 65 or over. If the population hits 70 million by 2029, as recently forecast by the Office for National Statistics (ONS), that will mean the working population will have to support at least 16 million people of current retirement age by 2033.

The fastest increase is in the "oldest old", who need much more care and support than younger pensioners.

In 1983 there were some 600,000 people in the UK aged 85 or over, according to the ONS, a figure which had more than doubled to 1.3 million by 2008.

But by 2033 the 85-plus population is projected to more than double again, to 3.2 million, the ONS has stated.

Amis asked: "How is society going to support this silver tsunami? There'll be a population of demented very old people, like an invasion of terrible immigrants stinking out the restaurants and cafés and shops."

"I can imagine a sort of civil war between the old and the young in 10 or 15 years' time," he told The Sunday Times.

The author of The Rachel Papers and Money, who has in the past been

Share |

19 retweet

Email | Print

Text Size + -

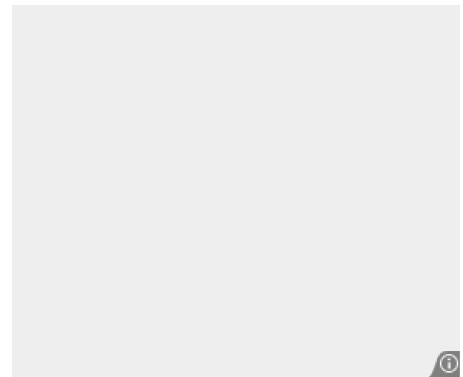

- UK News
- News
- Religion
- Culture
- Books
- Culture News

Ads by Google

- Silver
- Trade Show Booths
- Paint Booths
- Booths Furniture
- Picture Booths

Jumping spiders

EDITOR'S CHOICE

Ludlow's feast for the senses

Rose Prince heralds the Shropshire food festival, sponsored for the first time by the Daily Telegraph.

This Life TV star in US zombie cult series

Is the internet making Nicholas Carr stupid?

Top ten TV moments of the 1980s

Celtic fans should ditch terrorist sympathies

NEWS MOST VIEWED

- TODAY
  - PAST WEEK
  - PAST MONTH
- Murdered British spy found stuffed into sports bag in bath of London flat
  - Murdered British spy 'may have been killed by jealous lover'
  - German pop star escapes jail after failing to tell lovers she was HIV positive
  - Japanese politician launches attack on 'River Kwai' Britons
  - Greeks 'discover Odysseus' palace in Ithaca, proving Homer's hero was real'

SPONSORED FEATURES

- Summer Driving Guide
Indulge in guiltless pleasure on a summer drive with Volkswagen Eos, plus win designer driving accessories.
- Win a luxury Italian getaway
Four nights for six people in a luxury villa and dinner at a Michelin star restaurant. Find out more.
- Save on energy bills with a free kit
Track and reduce your energy with Southern Electric's smart kit. Be the first to sign up.

SPONSORED FEATURE

Start your love story

criticised by Muslims and feminists for his outspoken views, suggested that widespread euthanasia was the solution.

"There should be a booth on every corner where you could get a Martini and a medal" before taking one's life, he said.

Amis is known for his hyperbole, and it is unlikely he meant this as a practical measure.

But his support for euthanasia comes from first-hand experience of friends and family who have suffered from a slow descent into death, most notably Lord Kilmarnock, his stepfather; and Iris Murdoch, the author.

He said of Lord Kilmarnock, the former SDP peer and writer, who died last March aged 81: "My stepfather died very horribly last year ... He always thought he was going to get better. But he didn't get better and I think the denial of death is a great curse."

Of Murdoch, who died in 1999, two years after her husband said she had Alzheimer's disease, Amis said: "I remember talking to her just as it started happening, and she said, 'I've entered a dark place.' That famous quote. That awareness of loss is gone, the track is gone."

He proposed: "There should be a way out for rational people who've decided they're in the negative. That should be available, and it should be quite easy."

He did not think it would be "too hard" to have some sort of test that established a person's capacity to decide their own fate, he said.

Devina Hehir, head of legal strategy and policy at the pro-euthanasia group Dignity in Dying, said: "Like all too many people in the UK, Martin Amis has witnessed the bad death of a loved one.

"The answer to this problem is twofold: we need better access to, and investment in, high quality end-of-life care; and we need a change in the law to allow the choice of assisted dying for those terminally ill, mentally competent, adults who want it.

"Dignity in Dying's campaign for a change in the law is not about the introduction of 'euthanasia booths', nor is it in anticipation of a 'silver tsunami'.

"Our campaign is about allowing dying adults who have mental capacity a compassionate choice to end their suffering, subject to strict legal safeguards."

 Email Print

ADS BY GOOGLE

Restaurant Furniture Sale

Quality Seating, Booths, Tables. Quick Ship. Lowest Price Guarantee!
www.seatingexpert.com

FreeConferenceCall.com

24/7 Unlimited Free Conferencing. Calls. Easy Sign Up Online!
FreeConferenceCall.com

Silver Market - Monex

Leading Silver Bullion Dealer USA Free Report, Price Quotes, Charts
www.Monex.com/free\_DVD

MORE ON

- UK News  Get feed updates
- News  Get feed updates
- Religion  Get feed updates
- Culture  Get feed updates
- Books  Get feed updates
- Culture News  Get feed updates
- Stephen Adams  Get feed updates

Are you looking for a lasting relationship with match.com
Register for free now

PICTURES

Miss Universe gets serious

More odd national costumes worn by Miss Universe 2010 contestants.

Faster than a bullet

Dutch photographer's pioneering high-speed camera technique.

Floods and landslides

A series of major natural disasters have struck China this summer.

TELEGRAPH JOBS

Business Development Manager

Bristol, £50000

Financial Analyst- ...

London, £45000 to £55000

Director of Operations

London SW1, £80000 - £85000

 Upload your CV

 Get job alerts

TELEGRAPH DATING

fly2work

Very happy with life's journey so far but still seeking that bohemian, free spirited, lady to share everything that this big, wide world has to

MORE FROM TELEGRAPH.CO.UK

NEW ZEALAND 2011

Surfing in Dunedin

Situated on the South-Eastern tip of New Zealand, Dunedin and its nearby St. Clair's beach is the perfect place to catch some waves.

DRIVING GUIDE

Top five drives: summer nights

THE BIG PICTURE

Send us your best photos for a chance to win a £250 camera.

BEST BRITISH RECIPES

Top ten soup recipes

CINEMA TRAILERS

Sing-a-long version of Grease to hit cinemas mid September

Back to top

HOT TOPICS David Cameron | Pakistan | Trapped Chilean Miners | Football | Cricket | Google | Edinburgh Festival 2010

	News Politics World News Obituaries	Sport Football Olympics Cricket	Finance Personal Finance Economics Markets	Comment Blogs My Telegraph Letters	Contact Us Privacy Policy Advertising A to Z	RSS feeds
	Travel Health Jobs	Culture Motoring Dating	Fashion Property Games	Technology Food and Drink Offers	Tickets Announcements Promotions Reader Prints	Mobile Epaper

© Copyright of Telegraph Media Group Limited 2010 | Terms and Conditions | Today's News | Archive | Style Book | Weather Forecast