

Letters

Martin Amis: a response

guardian.co.uk, Monday 22 February 2010 21.36 GMT Article history

Dear Anna Ford, Your surprise attack at least has the virtue of simplicity (Letters, 20 February). You argue that I should accept the sternest possible treatment from the press, because 1) I was and am a poor godfather to your daughter Claire, and 2) I paid a visit to your husband Mark Boxer's sickroom, with Christopher Hitchens (you say we were "filling in time" before going on to Heathrow), and we stayed too long, smoked cigarettes "over his bed", and then I trumped up a memoir where I lyingly claimed to have left the house in distress.

Your first point is well taken. Your second is an unworthy farrago.

It is true that I am a useless godfather, as Nina Raine and Antonia Hitchens can grimly confirm. And I now recognise a lost opportunity: unlike Nina and Antonia, Claire was abruptly fatherless. And when I met her as a young adult, on the occasion you describe, she expressively and warmly reminded me of Mark (and I told her so). I will be writing to her to offer my apologies and regrets.

As for point 2, you are conflating two separate visits (and I made several such, not only to your house but also to that Tudorbethan hospital in Maida Vale). The visit described in the memoir I wrote about Mark was my final visit. The next morning I was scheduled to fly out with my family for our usual holiday in the US - where, days later, I read Mark's obituary in the New York Times. (Perhaps this is how the "plane to catch" business comes in.) On that occasion I said my last words to him and he said his last words to me, and I remember very clearly what they were. Then I left, and managed to reach my car before I was overwhelmed. (And, for the record, I never smoked a cigarette in Mark's bedroom.)

So I hope you can delete these items, at least, from your overall roster of grievances. And I wonder how it serves Mark's memory, or warms his ghost, to suggest that his two devoted friends (I and Christopher) behaved with such implausible callousness. What sane person "fills in time" at a deathbed? We both loved him, and still mourn him Many did, and many do. He was a powerfully delightful man. As ever,

Martin Amis

London

Printable version Send to a friend Share Clip Contact us Article history

Ads by Google

90% Off Used Textbooks Discount New & Used Text Books Free Shipping-All Orders. Buy Now! www.BetterWorldBooks.com/Textbooks

kafka on the shore "Kafka on the Shore" is a stage, the information in Takamatsu. arttakamatsu2.ashita-sanuki.jp/

"The Stand" Rock Opera

Tweet this (32)

larger smaller

Books Martin Amis

Media Newspapers

More letters

More on this story

Oh, and another thing Letters: Christopher Hitchens steps in to media scuffle between Martin Amis and Anna Ford again

Anna Ford v Martin Amis - the final episode (for now)

'Dear chaps ... ' Ford's conclusion

'To whom it may concern ... ' Hitchens's contribution

'Dear Martin Amis ... ' Ford's letter

'I'm already Kingsley: the piece that started it

More on Martin Amis

On guardian.co.uk

Most viewed Zeitgeist Latest

Last 24 hours

1. Business: The rise and fall of American Apparel

2. Sport: England v Pakistan - live!

3. News: M6 worker murdered, stuffed in a bag and dumped in a bath

4. News: Chilean miners told they may be trapped until Christmas

5. Football: Revealed: Sheikh Mansour's £500m Manchester City cash injection

More most viewed

Guardian Books on Twitter

Latest news, views and links from the Guardian's books team richardlea: What does a literary prize really, really need? Yep - an app. The Booker's got one ... http://tinyurl.com/38c96wx#books about 4 hours, 20 minutes ago samjordan: Haunting, charming, strange, familiar scenes from Victorian childhood: http://bit.ly/9Eedl8 #books about 9 hours, 19 minutes ago

Sarah Crown: RT @parisreview "At night you dream six dreams. But ARE they six dreams?" - Philip Roth's Paris Review interview http://tpr.ly/dkPrPB #books about 1 day, 3 hours ago

- Find more tweets from our books team Follow our books team on a Twitter list

Latest news on guardian.co.uk

Last updated one minute ago

News

Asil Nadir arrives in Britain to face fraud charges

guardianbookshop

This week's bestsellers

1. American Caesars by Nigel Hamilton £25.00

2. It's All About the Bike by Robert Penn £16.99

3. Red Men by John Williams £16.99

Related information

Books

Martin Amis

Media

Newspapers

Video (12min 58sec),
Martin Amis at the Guardian book club
1 Feb 2010:
Martin Amis joins John Mullan to talk about his novel from 1991, Time's Arrow

More video

12 Jun 2010
Beirut 39: New Writing from the Arab World, edited by Samuel Shimon | Book review

12 Jun 2010
Whoops! by John Lanchester and Money by Martin Amis | Audio

24 Feb 2010
Christopher Hitchens joins the fray: writer backs Martin Amis in row with Anna Ford

22 Feb 2010
Martin Amis responds: A poor godparent, yes, but I did not 'fill in time' at friend's deathbed

Gallery (14 pictures):
Martin Amis at 60
25 Aug 2009:
Martin Amis, the one-time enfant terrible of the British literary establishment, turns 60 today. Take a look at a life in pictures of the author of Money, London Fields, and Time's Arrow

More galleries

4. Finkler Question

by Howard Jacobson £18.99

5. Flavour Thesaurus

by Niki Segnit £18.99

Search the Guardian bookshop

Sponsored features

